- „Curtea Veche” - Old Princely Court – residence of Vlad the Impaler – Dracula

Old Court is one of the vestiges which dominates the historic center of Bucharest, being built during the reign of Vlad Tepes Dracula (XV century), Prince of Wallachia. Starting with the 16th century, the palace has become the official residence of the Wallachian princes, Constantin Brâncoveanu (1688-1714) and Ștefan Cantacuzino (1714 -1715), who ennobled the construction adding stone columns, marble stairs and valuable decorations.

- The old center of Bucharest

Bucharest's Old Town is today a charming district, pedestrian, with lots of tourist attractions. Impressive by the architecture of the buildings and streets with names of craft guilds, the old town is welcoming and cheerful today as it was in medieval times. Hundreds of shops, terraces, cafes, restaurants are scattered throughout the narrow streets of Bucharest for another time and waiting for you to discover.
